The present invention relates to a method of forming a lead frame and a method of fabricating a semiconductor device. In the case of fabricating, for example, a semiconductor device having a lead frame, a lead frame material formed in a predetermined shape is worked by a working tool to form a lead frame. As such a working method, a method in which lead frame materials formed in a predetermined shape are stacked to form a stacked plate, which is formed into a ring and then worked to be formed into a lead frame, and the lead frame obtained in the form of a ring is cut along a cutting line of the ring to form lead frames, i.e., lead frames each in the shape of a ring, is disclosed, for example, in JP-A-2005-187874.
